LYCOMING COLLEGE

CUTS

ON THE NEW REC CENTER

Lycoming College cut the ribbon on its new recreation center on April 23, 2004, in a special ceremony that included the placement of a time capsule in an interior wall.

Participating in the actual ribbon-cutting ceremony were from left: Emily Lubold '05, incoming President of the Student Senate; Mr. Frank L. Girardi, Sr., Director of Athletics; Mr. Robert W. Griesemer, Vice President and Treasurer of the College; Dr. James E. Douthat, President of Lycoming College; Mr. Hugh H. Sides '60, Trustee Chair of Buildings and Grounds Committee; Dr. Daniel G. Fultz '57, Trustee; Dr. Robert L. Shangraw '58, Chairman of the Board of Trustees; Dr. Sue A. Saunders, Dean of Student Affairs; Dr. Mehrdad Madreshech, Vice Chair of the Faculty; Ms. Christine M. Colella '04, President of the Student Senate of Lycoming College; Mrs. Laura C. Johnson, Director of Student Recreation and Conferences; Phil Mann, co-captain of the 2004 football team.

Phil Mann '05 (at right), co-captain of the 2004 football team and Matt Stackhousc '04, co-captain of the 2003-2004 basketball team, carry the time capsule to its resting place.

The $8.5 million center was designed by John C. Haas Associates, Inc., of State College while J. B. Gibbons Construction Co., Inc., of Williamsport served as the general contractor.

The new 54,000-square-foot facility is attached to the Lamade Gymnasium. It contains four multipurpose courts, an elevated 1/8 mile indoor running track, an expanded weight room and a large exercise and fitness area. The construction took 17 months to complete from the official ground-breaking in November of 2002.

Lycoming students selected the items to be placed in the official time capsule that was laid into an interior wall of the new recreation center. In addition to a letter to the future depicting college life in 2004, the students chose a college catalog, a parking ticket, a student ID, and a tuition bill along with more than two dozen other items of general interest.

Joe Cipriani '74, owner of Cipriani Electric and the electrical contractor for the recreation center, flips a switch in the new facility.

In December, the College created a new position of Director of Recreation and Conferences and hired Laura Johnson. Johnson wants to expand the intramural program from flag football, basketball and indoor soccer to include indoor tennis, ultimate frisbee, kickball, volleyball and whiffle ball – all possible with the large multi-court hall.

The College held two successful "Late Nights at the Gym" this past year with games and activities from 10:00 p.m. to 2:00 a.m. on Saturday nights.

The new weight and the cardiovascular room with treadmills, stair-climbers, and stationery bikes has been a big hit.

Rec Center by the Numbers:

- 800 tons of steel
- 56 tons of rebar
- 2,850 cubic yards of concrete
- 108,000 units of concrete block
- 90,000 bricks.

Class Valedictorian:
Jesse Josef Marikowski
and Heather L. Zelle
Salutatorian:
Shaun Elizabeth Sruitz

Under blue skies, 206 students received their degrees during Lycoming College's 156th Commencement ceremony held on the Main Quad on May 9, 2004.

Robert L. Shangraw '58, Chairman of the Board of Trustees of Lycoming College, was the featured speaker. Shangraw, who retired in 2001 from Merrill Lynch as First Vice President of Investments, has been Lycoming's Board chair since 1989 and chaired two capital campaigns for the College.

He also received an honorary doctorate from Lycoming College along with Mamie Sweeting Diggs, local historian of the Underground Railroad.

The Most Reverend Joseph Francis Martino, the Roman Catholic Bishop of Scranton, gave the Baccalaureate sermon on Saturday, May 8.

Graduating with highest honors were from left: Jesse Manikowski, Dustin Crouse, Sharon Shultz, Jennifer Galka, Erika Frederick, Emily DiMarco, Erin Long, Heather Zelle, Rachael Cochran, Laura Thompson, President Douthat, and Virginia Shank. Missing: Sara Covert, Edward Hunter and Kimberly Jones.

Laura Thompson

The Stunhak family with three Lycoming College Graduates

Laura Thompson '04, a creative writing major, was one of just 60 students nationwide to be awarded a Phi Kappa Phi Graduate Fellowship for 2004-2005. She will receive $5,000 to aid her pursuit of an MFA degree in Creative Writing.

► Theatre Department received Certificate of Merit from the Kennedy Center American College Theatre Festival for Outstanding Acting Ensemble in its production of Hedda Gabler. The play was directed by Dr. N. J. Stanley, assistant professor of theatre.

► Lycoming's student newspaper won a first place award from the American Scholastic Press Association for the 2003-2004 school year. Out of a possible 1,000 points, the Lycourier received 945 from the judges. In addition, two members of the Lycourier staff received individual awards from the Keystone Press: Kelly Peirce '04, a senior French major from Stahlstown, received second place for an outstanding advice column. Summer Beretsky '06, a communication major from Kingston, received a second place award for an outstanding photograph. Janice Ogureak serves as advisor.

At Lycoming

► Lycoming College admissions publications won three awards—one gold and two bronzes—from Admissions Marketing Report in the category of colleges with fewer than 2,000 students. Murray Hanford, publications manager, designed the materials.

Three-Time Ambassador Speaks

Robert Krueger, whose public service career includes three ambassadorships and stints in the U.S. Congress and Senate, entertained the question "When to Intervene" with Lycoming College students on March 16.

Krueger began his public lecture by paying tribute to the Marshall Plan in which the U.S. did intervene and in doing so helped to restore post WWII Europe. He then recalled his time as ambassador to a war-torn Burundi as a case in which the U.S. chose not to intervene, but should have. His third example—the Iraqi War—was one in which the Democrat felt the U.S. should not have intervened; but one in which we now have the responsibility to restore.

The ambassador spent three days on campus as a Faculty Fellow-in-Residence and taught several political science classes.

Women in Politics

Four area women who are in politics came to campus in March. They included Mary Wolf, current mayor of Williamsport, who taught political science at Lycoming College (1985-2000) and served as the Dean for Freshmen (1990-1999).

Theologian Discusses "Christianity, Islam and Hope for Peace"

Rev. David Burrell, C.S.C., the Theodore Hesburgh Professor of Philosophy and Theology at the University of Notre Dame, came to campus during the second week in April. The author and theologian discussed the similarities between Islam and Christianity and Judaism.

Dr. Stephen Griffith and Rev. David Burrell.

Jauss

Poet David Jauss

Noted poet and short story writer David Jauss gave a reading of his work on March 18 in the Mary L. Welch Theatre as part of several days he spent on campus as an Artist-in-Residence. He has received the Associated Writing Programs Award for Short Fiction, the Fleur-de-Lis Poetry Prize, a National Endowment for the Arts Creative Writing Fellowship, the James Michener Fiction Fellowship, the O. Henry Award, two Pushcart Prizes, and three Arkansas Arts Council Creative Writing Fellowships. Dr. Jauss is currently a professor of English at the University of Arkansas.

Noted Historian is Ewing Lecturer

The millionaire and philanthropist Andrew Carnegie was the topic of the Annual Ewing Lecture at Lycoming College given March 24 by David Nasaw, a professor of history and director of the Center for Humanities at the Graduate Center of the City University of New York.

The Robert H. Ewing Endowed Lectureship was established in 1973 to honor Professor Robert H. Ewing, who taught history for 27 years at Lycoming College. Now in its 31st year, the lecture series brings a noted historian to Lycoming College each year. Professor Ewing died in 1991.

fraternity leader, admissions tour guide, and orientation leader. Academic achievements include election to Phi Alpha Theta, the history honorary society; Pi Sigma Alpha, the political science honorary society; and Phi Kappa Phi, the all academic honorary society, as well as a place on the Dean's List for four years. Through his service as a tutor, peer counselor, and member of the United Campus Ministry, he also enriched the lives of countless children and young adults.

Family Affair

Robert L. Shangraw, chairman of the Board of Trustees, and his wife, Charlene, hosted a family gathering at the College to announce three newly endowed scholarships honoring family members.

Employment Advisory Committee Formed

On Friday, May 14th the newly formed Employment Advisory Committee (EAC) held its first meeting in the Student Boardroom of the Wertz Student Center. The EAC was formed as a result of several major recommendations that came from an external review of the Career Development Center and informal recommendations from the Alumni Association Executive Board. The review identified a need to develop formal mechanisms for involving both alumni and employers in the College's Career Development Center.

The committee is made up of Lycoming College alumni who represent categories of business and industry in which the majority of our new graduates begin their professional careers. The first meeting was to review all of the services that the CDC provides.

Picking Lycoming

ONE STUDENT'S STORY

This is edited from an article by Timothy Logue which appeared in the Delaware County (Pa.) Times on April 19, 2004. The story followed Maureen Custer as she chose a college.

A lot was on the line. Pressure was the last thing Maureen Custer needed as she picked up her flute.

"I knew if I choked in my music audition or they didn't like my art that I would not get the scholarships," said the Interboro High School (Pa.) senior. "I started to get an anxiety attack."

The setting for Custer's mini-meltdown was Lycoming College, a small school located in Williamsport. It's a relaxed and countrified city in the Susquehanna Valley best known as the home of the Little League World Series.

Though called auditions, Custer was essentially displaying her artwork and playing her flute for college cash.

"I panicked because of everything that was on the line, but I ended up getting a $1,900 scholarship for my art and $1,000 for my music," she said.

"Adding that money to a $10,000 academic scholarship and other loans got me down to about $13,000 a year," she said. "Normally everything costs about $30,000, so I'm pretty happy with how it all turned out."

For Custer, the college application process came as advertised. It was time consuming, expensive, detail driven and a little stressful.

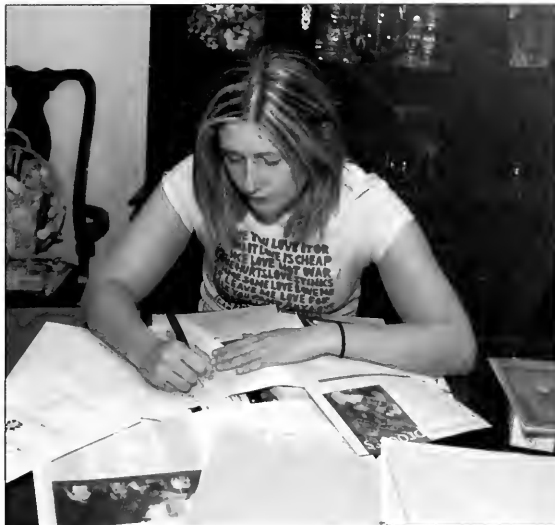

With every campus tour Custer took, she learned a little bit more about what they wanted out of the next four years.

"Since spring break of my junior year, I've visited one or two campuses per month," she said. "The time you spend researching on the Internet, applying for scholarships and working on applications is insane. There are so many options to consider that you have to get started early or you could get stuck somewhere you don't want to be."

Finer Points

Maureen Custer never pictured herself at a college in the middle of Pennsylvania, but a push from a family friend and a handful of ho-hum campus visits steered her in a different direction than she had anticipated.

"I initially wanted a big-city experience and a change of scenery. I thought I would end up in New York," she said. "Then I visited city campuses where everyone looked miserable and people were walking around with their heads down like they didn't want to get mugged or something."

Maureen's mother, Sharon, drove up to New England with her daughter to look at the University of Massachusetts and also joined her for pit-stops at St. Bonaventure and Syracuse universities and Marist and Le Moyne colleges.

"It was a lot of fun driving all around, just the two of us," Sharon Custer said. "I wouldn't call it high stress. Once you finish the busy work, mailing the applications and meeting all the deadlines, the rest of it—except for the tuition—isn't bad at all."

The Custers also made a trip to State College.

"I went up to Penn State, which is a really popular choice at my school if you can get into the main campus," Maureen said. "But I didn't like the feeling of being around 40,000 students. It was too much."

And then there was Lycoming, which wasn't even on the radar until last fall. "My friend went there and he kept telling me 'Just go up there. Just take a look,'" Sharon Custer said, "so we toured it in September or October and I loved it."

"It was great," Maureen said. "I fell in love with the place in the first five minutes."

Maureen's father, Tom, admits he's at a loss to know what the Custer women were up to on any given weekend. "I've been operating on a 'need to know' basis for a while now," he said.

Learning to Fly

Though a good student, Maureen Custer is just as proud of the experiences she's accumulated outside of the classroom at Interboro. "I'm ranked 52nd in a class of 371, which is pretty good but not overwhelming to people who look at applications," she said. "My academic record has never given a full picture of what I've given to the community."

Custer has been working at an ice cream stand and a bowling alley in suburban Philadelphia. She's a Girl Scout leader in two troops, plays in the band and takes off early from softball practice each Monday to give flute lessons. She wants to be a psychology major in a pre-med program and also earn a minor in art. Last summer, she spent three weeks traveling in Australia and New Zealand and found life away from home agreeable.

"At first, I was one of those kids who couldn't wait to get out of the house but that kind of passed," she said. "I might call home every day but I'm not the kind of person who is going to sit in her room and cry. I really appreciate the way my parents have looked after me and helped me and now I want to prove to myself that I can function as a normal human being without being told what to do.

"Three hours is far enough away and close enough so that I can come home when I want to see my grandmother and my family."

"It was great, I fell in love with the place in the first five minutes."

Notes

Lynn Estomin

The Arts

Lynn Estomin, associate professor of art, received a grant from the PA Council on the Arts and the Williamsport/Lycoming Arts Council for her Underground Railroad Public Art Project. The five large-scale banners created for this project have been circulating through Williamsport Area schools and were displayed at the James V. Brown Library in Williamsport in June. The website Estomin created for the project received a Gold Web Award.

Estomin's documentary video, No Justice, No Peace, received a cash award for Outstanding Documentary at the Athens International Film and Video Festival last summer and a Purchase Award at the OVNI Video Festival in Barcelona. It was also screened at the National Women's Studies Conference in New Orleans and at Oxford College, California State University, and Emory University. Educational Media Review rated the video as Highly Recommended, which was picked up for national broadcast by Free Speech TV.

Estomin also served as a National Peer Reviewer for the Society for Photographic Education (SPE) and curator for the SPE Film Festival and was elected Vice-Chair of the SPE Mid-Atlantic region

Dr. Amy Golahny has been promoted to full professor of art history. She has a new book, Rembrandt's Reading: The Artist's Bookshelf, published by Amsterdam University Press, which was reviewed in Trouw, a major daily Dutch newspaper, and in The Historians of Netherlandic Art newsletter. She received a grant of 6000 euros to support the publication of the book from the Prins Bernhard Cultuural Fonds, a major Dutch Foundation.

She had two articles on Rembrandt published this year and is now president of the American Association for Netherlandic Studies, a university-level organization that promotes the culture of the Low Countries and the Dutch-speaking world. Now she is working on artists of Williamsport area collections and presented a paper on "George Loring Brown's 'Sunset: Bay of Naples'" at the Pittsburgh conference of the Mid-West Art History Society.

A painting by Dr. Roger Shipley, professor of art, was purchased for the school by the Class of 2004 as a senior gift and now hangs above the fireplace in Burchfield Lounge. (See page 8)

Shiple had a one-man show of his work at the Faustina Gallery in Lewisburg and showed work at the Susquehanna Festival of the Arts, Lewisburg Arts Council annual exhibition, B&S Picture Frames Gallery and the Vanderlin Gallery in Williamsport.

Howard Tran,

assistant professor of art, exhibited work in eight different shows this year, including "Outside and In" in Marblehead, Mass.; "Image 2003" in the Robeson Gallery, Penn State; "America Figurative Art Exhibit," Santa Cruz, Calif.; "Bold Expression," Northern California Arts, Inc., in Carmichael, Calif.; 35th Annual National Exhibition in Palm Springs, Calif.; 38th National Drawing and Small Sculpture Show, Corpus Christi, Tex.; as well as in shows at B&S Picture Frames, Inc., Vanderlin Gallery and a solo exhibition at Gallery 152, all in Williamsport.

Music

Dr. Fred Thayer,

professor of music, was commissioned by Mansfield University to compose a composition for its Concert Choir. "Look to This Day" premiered in October on the Mansfield campus. The composition received a second performance by the Gregg Smith Singers in November at St. Peter's Church, New York City.

Christopher Woodruff, director of the Concert Band, received the Junior Faculty Teaching Award this year.

Theatre

Jerry Allen, associate professor of theatre, had 35 years of his costume and scenic designs on display in the Lycoming College Gallery from March-April. The retrospective show was curated by Dustin Crouse '04 as a senior project.

Chris Woodruff

Jerry Allen

History

Dr. N. J. Stanley, assistant professor of theatre, had an article, "History As Theme Park: Reconfiguring the Human Journey in the Art of Theodora Skiptares," published in The Drama

Review. She presented a paper on "The Hunted and the Hunter: The 21st Century Woman in Gilman's Boy Gets Girl and LaBute's The Shape of Things" at the 28th Comparative Drama

Conference in Columbus, Ohio, in April 2004.

Communication, Languages and Literature

Dr. Sascha Feinstein, who was promoted to full professor of English this year, had an essay, "Blouse Catching Smoke," published in The New Laurel Review, a literary journal from New Orleans, and a poem, "Blue Herons," published in the anthology, Poets Against the War, one of approximately 160 poems that were selected from over 13,000 submissions. His sonnet series, "Everything Happens to Me, 1965," was published in American Poetry Review, the most widely circulated poetry review in the world. He has also been seen playing the sax at the Bullfrog with the Sascha Feinstein Quintet.

An article by Dr. Garrett Heysel, assistant professor of French, entitled "Sporty Gals: Sports for Women Ahead of Their Time" was published in Contemporary French Civilization. Heysel received tenure this spring.

Dr. Barbara Buedel, associate professor of Spanish and Coordinator of Study Abroad Program, has an essay entitled "Marriage and Commitment in Carmen Delgado Salas's La boda and Yolanda Pallin's Luna de miel" which will be published this fall in El próximo acto: Teatro español en el siglo XXI.

Dr. Sandra Kingery was promoted to associate professor of Spanish. Her sabbatical (this past year)

"has been wonderful," she says. She took advanced translation classes at Sampere Estudio Internacional in Madrid for three months and is completing a translation of Ana Maria Moix's second novel, Walter, ¿por qué te fuiste? (Walter, Why Did You Go Away?). Her translation of Moix's first novel, Julia, is due out this fall from University of Nebraska Press.

She had two papers published this year: "Silencing Subversion in Ana Maria Moix's 'Dedicatoria,'" in Letras femininas, and "Writing Away the Distance: Letters Between Ana Maria Moix and Rosa Chacel" in the Hispanic Journal. She also presented papers on Ana Maria Moix at conferences at Marquette University and University of Cincinnati.

Dr. Carole Moses, professor of English, had her article, "Elizabeth Bonnet, Jane Austen, and the Limits of Irony," published by Persuasions: The Journal of the Jane Austen Society this spring.

Robin Van Auken, visiting instructor in communication, has two books to her credit: Williamsport: Boomtown on the Susquehanna (2003) and Williamsport The Grit Photograph Collection (2004). Both are published by the Arcadia Publishing Company.

Humanities

Dr. Stephen Griffith, professor of philosophy, presented an invited paper entitled "Final Causation and Intelligent Design" at a conference on "Philosophical Issues in Contemporary Science" held in Digby, Nova Scotia, in August 2003.

Dr. Richard Hughes, professor of religion, had his article "Letters Home: Reflections from Boston University, 1963-1964," published in Focus (Fall, 2003): 6-7. This article, based on letters to his parents, portrays his life as a first-year theological student during the critical phase of the Civil Rights Movement. His essay, "Suicide Grief Work and Pastoral Counseling," was published in the American Journal of Pastoral Counseling, 6:2 (Winter, 2003): 43-62.

Dr. David Witwer

History

Dr. David Witwer, associate professor of history, won the Richard Wentworth Prize for the best book in history published by the University of Illinois Press. The book, Corruption and Reform in the Teamsters Union, also was selected by Choice Magazine to be included among its list of the Outstanding Academic Titles of 2003. Less than 3% of books submitted to Choice receive this distinction. He was also named to the editorial board of the Journal of Labor History.

Institute for Management Studies

Richard Wienecke, assistant professor of accounting, was reappointed to the Northern Tier Regional Planning and Development Commission Economic Development Committee.

The 2nd edition of Bonita Kolb's book, Marketing for Cultural Organizations, has been published by Oak Tree Press. The book has also been translated into Korean. The assistant professor of business presented a paper on "Model for Community Arts" at the 7th International Conference on Arts and Cultural Management in Milan, Italy, last June. She was featured on BBC Radio, speaking on the future of the classical music industry. She was an invited presenter at the conference on "Sustaining Partnerships: Campus-Community Connections" by the Pennsylvania League of Cities and Municipalities where she spoke on "Initiative Worth a Second Look: Taking the Classroom Downtown."

Dr. Arthur Sterngold, assistant professor of business administration, had his article, "Confronting Plagiarism: How Conventional Teaching Invites Cyber-Cheating," published in the May/June 2004 issue of Change, the official magazine of the American Association of Higher Education.

Dr. Madresehee

Dr. Mehrdad Madresehee was promoted to full professor of economics. His paper, "Globalization: Major Challenges Face the Islamic Republic of Iran," appeared in the Summer 2003 issue of the Journal of South Asian and Middle Eastern Studies. This peer-reviewed journal is presently published by Villanova University on a quarterly basis. This spring he was part of the Faculty Fellows Internship Program in Washington, D.C., sponsored by the Institute for Experiential Learning and the Association of American Colleges and Universities. He is one of two professors nationwide chosen for the fellowship.

Dr. Philip Springer

Dr. Philip Springer was promoted to associate professor of economics and received the Constance Cupp Plankenhorn Alumni Teaching Award.

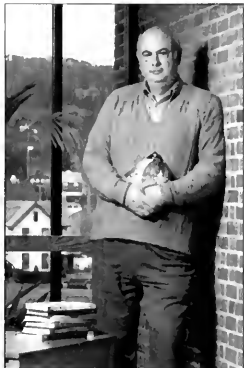

Mathematical and Computer Sciences

Dr. Eileen Peluso was promoted to associate professor of mathematics.

Dr. Cui Yin, assistant professor of mathematical sciences, presented a paper last July on "Special Loci in Moduli of Curves" at the International Conference on the Applications of Computer Algebra at North Carolina State University, an NSF funded talk. She presented a paper, "Special Loci in Moduli of Curves with Marked Points," at the American Mathematical Society's Fall Southeastern Section Meeting held in Chapel Hill, N.C.

Social Sciences

Dr. Michael Roskin, professor of political science, had two books published in 2004: the eighth edition of his

Dr. Michael Roskin

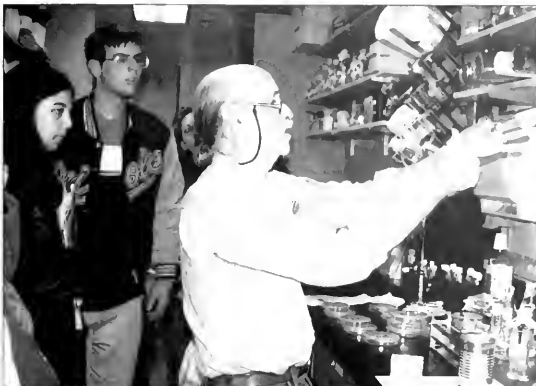

Countries and Concepts, and a new book, Politics of the Middle East. Both are published by Prentice Hall.

Dr. Susan Alexander, associate professor of sociology, retired this spring.

Dr. Alexander

Dr. Susan Ross, assistant professor of sociology, received tenure this spring. She was also co-author of a chapter on "Corporal Punishment and Black's Theory of Social Control" in the book, Corporal Punishment of Children in Theoretical Perspective, published by Yale University Press. Ross presented a paper on "Over-Dichotomizing Mothers and Non-Mothers: Awakening Maternal Instincts in programs from the dawn of the Space Age to the present day.

Dr. Edward Gabriel, associate professor of biology, received the Makisu Award from the student body for service to students above and beyond the expected norm. This is the third time Dr. Gabe has received the award, the second year in a row.

Dr. Mel Zimmerman, professor of biology, received a total of $180,000 in Growing Greener grants awarded to the Lycoming College Clean Water Institute for a three-year project to analyze and assess stream restoration data from around the state and develop a Keystone Stream Team website. The grant is in partnership with the PA-DEP, Keystone Stream Team, Penn State Dirt and Gravel Roads Department and the Canaan Valley Institute. In addition, two other grants (to Buffalo Creek Watershed-Lewisburg and Mahoning Creek Watershed-Danville) that were funded include summer stipends/supplies/mileage to support six Lycoming student summer interns over the next two years.

Dr. Zim presented a paper titled "Response to Trout Populations to Natural Stream Channel Restorations in Big Bear Creek, Lycoming County, Pa." at the 133rd annual meeting of the American Fisheries Society held at Quebec City. He was also co-organizer of a symposium on Stream Restoration.

Professional Programs Education

Dr. Kathleen Chamberlain, assistant professor of education, had her book on Middle Schools for a Diverse Society published by Peter Lang Publishing. She made a presentation at the 39th Annual Reading Conference at Bloomsburg University on interdisciplinary instruction called "Piecing It All Together" and a second presentation on "Problem Based Learning for the Middle School Classroom" at the Pennsylvania Middle School Association State Conference.

Library

Janet McNeil Hurlbert, associate dean and director of library services, was elected vice-president, president-elect of ACLCP (Associated College Libraries of Central Pennsylvania). She was appointed as a member on the LAMABES Library Buildings Awards Committee for the American Library Association.

Student Affairs

Dr. Sue Saunders, dean of student affairs, co-authored a paper on "Women in Student Affairs: A Historical Perspective" which she presented at the American College Personnel Association in Minneapolis. She also was chosen to serve on the editorial board of Journal of College Student Development.

Summer Reading

Need a book for the beach or the backyard? Here are some suggestions from faculty and staff.

- ▶ Wherever You Go, There you Are
By Jon Kabat-Zinn
Suggested by Mark Britton, Director of Counseling
"It's a wonderful book about letting go of worries and stresses and simply being in the moment. I highly recommend it."
- ▶ My Year of Meats
By Ruth L. Ozeki
Suggested by Lynn Estomin, Associate Professor of Art
- ▶ Sprees: A Cultural History of Shopping
By Pamela Klaflike
Suggested by Dr. Bonita Kolb, Assistant Professor of Marketing
- ▶ Founding Mothers
By Cokie Roberts
Suggested by Susan Beidler, Associate Professor, Head Collections Management Services
Just published in April, it is an interesting read about the women in the lives of the Founding Fathers.
- ▶ The Dante Club
By Matthew Pearl
Suggested by Sue Saunders, Dean of Students Affairs
"Historical fiction set in 19th Century Boston with such interesting lead characters as Oliver Wendell Holmes and Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, it is also a murder mystery."

Lycoming Connections – March 26

The Career Development Center and Alumni Office hosted a new alumni and student networking event in Williamsport. Over 70 alumni and students attended, and it was a great opportunity for everyone to make "Lycoming Connections." More events involving both alumni and students are planned for the future.

Easter Party – April 4

The Alumni Office teamed up with Big Brothers/Big Sisters of Lycoming College to host a fun afternoon at Montour Bowling Lanes. The day included bowling, a pizza party, a visit from the Easter Bunny and an Easter Egg Hunt. Over 50 people attended, including "big," "littles," alumni and their children. A special thanks goes to Mindy (Bierly) Gunn '94 for her help in coordinating the event. Alumni who attended also included Fred Fuess '81, Lauri (Cero) '88 and Charles '88 Kremer, Heather (Harris) MacGill '93, Maria Elena (DeMora) '91 and Michael '91 Pearson, Cheryl (Oldt) Riley '98, Rebecca (Winter) Swales '95 and Claire (Martin) White '80.

Bob & Mike's Excellent Gettysburg Battlefield Adventure – April 17

Dr. Robert Larson, history professor, and Alumni and students learn about the Battle of Gettysburg

Easter Egg Hunt

Mike Ellicott, retired U.S. Army Corps of Engineers Officer, led a group of alumni, history students and friends on a walking tour of the Gettysburg Battlefield. The day included a briefing on the battle's military strategies, and then participants walked "through the trenches" to key battle locations. A special thanks goes to David Walsh '76 for his assistance in the event plans. Other alumni in attendance included Andy Bucke '71, Stephen Chortanoff '03, John Lewis '48, Jan McDonald '74, Jon McNeal '62, Nancy (Sullivan) '77 and John '76 Shorb.

Fourteen foursomes of former basketball players, parents, faculty, staff and friends teed off at White Deer Golf Course for the annual Basketball Golf Outing. First place with a score of 62 was the team of Jamie Spencer '01, Lycoming's current golf coach; Steve Caravaggio '82; and Sean McCaan and Curt Chilson, friends of the College. Proceeds support the men's basketball program.

Dinner and Tour Choir Bon Voyage Concert - May 14

The Alumni & Parent Programs Office hosted 150+ alumni, parents, family and friends for a lovely dinner preceding the Lycoming College Tour Choir "Bon Voyage" Concert at the Scottish Rite Auditorium in Williamsport. Rev. James Gold '54 led the invocation for the dinner. The Tour Choir performed the Benediction for the dinner guests prior to the concert. The Choir departed for their Spain Tour the next day.

Notes from the AAEB Meeting

The Alumni Association Executive Board (AAEB) met on campus for its Spring Meeting, March 26-27. The Regional Affairs Committee is working on a comprehensive guide for regional chapters, and the Communications Committee is benchmarking communication activities of similar institutions. Members selected Alumni Award Winners for 2004, who will be honored at Homecoming. The board also elected four new members to the AAEB:

- Dr. Shannon Keane '94 Peoria, AZ
- Rev. Dr. Ron McElwee '71 - Lemoyno, PA
- Maria Elena "Malena" (DeMore) Pearson '91 - South Williamsport, PA
- Barbara (Neff) Price '60 - Shavertown, PA

More than 150 Tour Choir friends attended dinner before the choir's Bon Voyage Concert. The Tour spent 10 days touring in Spain.

The Board recognized the efforts of members leaving the board: Dr. Bob Bender '59, Mrs. D. Keigh (Cronauer) Earisman '58, Mrs. Kathy (Tighe) Gaye '75 and Mr. Jay Thomson '86.

Frequently Asked Questions

Q: What is the Lycoming Annual Fund?

A: The Lycoming Annual Fund is the life blood of Lycoming College! Gifts provide an immediate impact on the College by helping meet the increasing costs of educating students, costs that tuition and other revenue alone cannot cover.

Q: Why does Lycoming need my money this year? I just gave last year.

A: The Lycoming Annual Fund will never not need gifts. Funds that are raised this year support needs of this year. Dependable giving early in the fiscal year allows the Annual Fund staff to spend its time and budget most efficiently. The College's 2005 fiscal year begins on July 1, 2004 and continues through June 20, 2005.

Q: How can my modest gift make a difference?

A: The gift that you choose to make is a statement saying, "Yes, I am proud to support Lycoming, and I want to help current students make the most of their Lycoming experience." By making a gift, no matter what the size, you play an active role in the life of Lycoming, and at the same time help to raise essential participation rates.

Q: How is the Lycoming Annual Fund goal set and what is the importance of reaching that goal?

A: Currently 90% of students attending Lycoming receive some form of financial aid. If every student paid the full cost to attend Lycoming, it would still not be enough to cover the costs of running the College. As the costs rise by about 5-10% per year, so does the Lycoming Annual Fund goal. If every alumnus who supports the Lycoming Annual Fund increased his/her gift by 5-10% a year, goals would be met and costs would be covered on an annual basis.

Geoff Gotsch

(religion, archaeology, and history) is a Petty Officer 1st Class in the U.S. Navy and serves as a Religious Program Specialist (RP). He is assigned to the 1st Battalion, 5th Marine Regiment, 1st Marine Division in Fallujah, Iraq. (Because Marines do not enlist non-combatants, chaplains and RP's, as well as medics and doctors, come from the Navy.)

He has been an RP since his graduation with his home base as Camp Pendleton, Calif. Geoff's job description normally involves generally being an office manager for the chaplain, organizing religious programs, and assisting the chaplain with religious services.

Now that he is in Iraq, things are done differently. Explains Geoff, "most of my time is taken up with services and as the bodyguard for the chaplain. Counseling has become informal, as we visit the platoons and talk to the Marines there. Mostly, we do services in the field. Services can be held anywhere. The other day we used a couple of MRE boxes for an altar in an old warehouse; then went and did the same service in a bombed out garage; then in a soda factory. The chaplain and I carry all the supplies for the service ourselves, which means we have nothing elaborate."

As a note, in the first attack on Fallujah, Geoff's battalion lost eight Marines. Geoff has not seen his daughter who was born on February 12.

Pave The Way

As an alumnus or friend of Lycoming College, you have a special opportunity to buy an engraved brick to be placed on the Commencement Steps. Proceeds will fund a special endowed student scholarship. In a very real sense, you will be paving the way for future generations of Lycoming graduates.

Bricks can be engraved to

- Commemorate graduation
- Create your own landmark on campus
- Honor a classmate, loved one or faculty member
- Give as a gift
- Serve as a memorial

Purchase an engraved brick for $225 each to make a lasting impression on Lycoming's beautiful landscape. You can place an order by sending your check and the order blank provided. If you would like more information on the brick project, please call Katie Bell, Director of Alumni and Parent Programs, at 570-321-4134.

The brick can be imprinted with three lines of up to 15 characters each (including spaces and punctuation). Please print (with capital letters) the name or message you would like on your special brick in the boxes below. The manufacturer reserves the right to choose type size and arrange words to maintain balance and improve legibility.
